

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A network system which includes a plurality of information appliances and a control system. The control system includes a response control device for receiving selection of an information appliance and response instructions from a user and sending a response command to the selected information appliance. The information appliance includes a response device for implementing a response processing, and an information appliance control device for receiving a response command to have the response device implementing a response processing.